Where To Go On A Cruise

When it comes to the cruise, there are plenty of places that you can travel. When you are choosing, you should pay close attention to the various things that are available to you to do on the cruise. With so many options out there, you are sure to find more than a few that will fit your needs to a T. The goal is to choose the right ones for your needs. Take your time to insure that you get the ones that will offer you the very best that is available. Research is the key to finding the option that is ideal for you.

Going Tropic?

One of the most common types of cruises is that of the tropical cruise. If you are going to enjoy yourself on the beaches in Hawaii or any other tropical location, make sure that you choose the ideal location for you. There are many cruises that are designed for passengers that want to feel the heat. Look at all of your options. To get a great deal on these vacations, consider looking for those that are offered during the off season. This can be the ideal time to go because temperatures are just cool enough for you to really enjoy them and you can save a great deal of money too.

Go North

If you are not looking forward to the heat of a cruise, then you should consider going north instead of heading to the tropics. Believe it or not, these can be some of the best cruises out there. If you want to see the most beautiful of locations, this is the place to go. In one cruise in particular, the Alaskan cruises, you will be able to see amazing scenery that is just incomparable to anything that you may have seen before. You can also catch a glimpse of hump back whales if you are really lucky.

Go For Cultures

There are plenty of other locations that you can visit as well. You can go to Mexico or to South America. You can visit Asia or even Europe and Africa. The world is your possibilities when it comes to a cruise. You should be able to discover many of the things that you would like to on these cruises as well. Some will make several stops at various ports to allow you to get the most for your money. You can see the foods and wares that are offered to you near the ports as well.

You can go virtually any place that you would like to on a cruise. Go ahead and enjoy all that is out there and waiting for you.

Cruises With Themes

One thing that you should consider when it comes to the cruise is that you have the ability to find ones that offer a wide range of themes. These could be specific things or they just could be something that helps to limit the types of people that will be on board with you. Finding others that share the same things that you do is a great way for you to really enjoy your vacation on your cruise. With these themed options, you can make sure that happens for you.

Some of the most common types of themed cruises are those that are geared to the kids. You will find a wide range of them offering many of the things that kids enjoy doing from playing all day to swimming to learning and crafts. There are many things to keep them busy including babysitting to allow parents to enjoy their time alone too.

But, that is far from the only things that you have to consider. Consider senior or adult only cruises where children will not be on board. Consider the cruise that features just singles that are looking for their soul mate. Or, consider those tours that are themed with an adventure such as an adventure to see the Alaskan wilderness. There are many more for you to consider as well.

Take some time now and find the cruises that interest you and your family. Look for those that offer activities that you would like to do and things that will inspire your family to spend time together. You may want to book a cruise for your entire family and enjoy each others company. Still, there are plenty of options for you. You can explore most of them right here on the web. Then make your choice based on the things that you like the very best. Get out there and find a few that fit your bill.

Making Your Cruise Plans

There is a lot more to planning your cruise vacation than you may realize, until you get into it. You may know where you want to go on your cruise, but do you know when you want to go? Would you rather go in the off season, so the ship won't be crowded? Can you look at the calendar and pick a date as far ahead as a year from now, and definitely say you can take your vacation starting on that day? Would you be able to get a better rate if you waited later, or would the prices rise? All of these questions can be frustrating to answer, and are just the tip of the iceberg when it comes to planning your cruise vacation.

In all honesty, there are too many variables involved to be able to definitively answer any of those questions. You never know what may come up at work that may require you to change your vacation plans, you have no way to know when other passengers will be planning their vacations, and you never really know about prices, because they often vary from cruise to cruise, day to day. There are a few things that you can do that might make this initial planning easier for you, so keep reading.

The first thing you want to do is some comparison shopping. Look at the prices of similar cruises with different cruise lines, compare the rates and what benefits are include in the price. This research should be fairly easy to pull off if you use the Internet, or you can go through a travel agent, whichever you prefer.

When you have narrowed it down to one or two cruise companies, you will want to get quotes for you specific dates and destination that you have in mind, which will really narrow it down for you.

If you can be flexible about when you take your cruise vacation, you may be able to secure a better price. If you have to go at a certain time, it really is essential to make your reservations as soon as possible, to not only ensure you get a good rate, but to make certain you get a cruise that you can go on. Since they start filling up early, if you wait until the last minute, you may be out of luck!

How To Have An Unforgettable Cruise Vacation

Booking early may not give you the discount that you are looking for, but it will save your spot. Keep in mind, that even if you do book early, you are not guaranteed to get the date that you ask for, although cruise lines will try their best to accommodate you.

Sometimes, if there are extra spaces on a cruise, the cruise line will run special deals to fill up the ship. If you are able to go at these times, you may be able to really save some money on your cruise vacation, so keep that in mind. If you do it this way, you will need to be ready to go at anytime, with your passport and all paperwork completed.

If you decide to travel outside of the peak season, you will have many more choices available, and odds are you will be able to get a much lower rate as well.

How Do You Book A Cruise?

If you are ready to get out there on the big ocean, you may not know just how you can go about booking your cruise vacation. Many individuals find that the cruise is an ideal place to sit and mingle and to enjoy all that life has to offer. But, not everyone's options are what will fit your needs. You may not want to go rock climbing, but you would like the opportunity to see some hump back whales. When you book a cruise, you will want to make sure that you book one that fits your needs the very best.

The first thing to do is to do some research. You really need to know what is out there and what interests you. You should consider these things.

- Where the cruise will leave from as well as where it is traveling to. Remember, you will need to get to the port in order to get onto the ship which means an additional cost of flying to the port or driving there.
- What is there to do on the cruise? Each of the ships that do cruises will likely offer you a wide range of choice. But, some will have more of a variety than others will. You should insure that you know what the cruise is offering. This is easy to find out just from looking at your options.
- Who will be on the cruise with you? Some cruises are designed with special themes while others are not. A cruise that is designed for children may not be the one you want to take if you do not have children. Or, if you are single looking to find your soul mate, consider a singles cruise.
- Where will the cruise stop on the way? Many cruises will allow you to stop and enjoy the attractions of several ports. Perhaps you would like to do some sight seeing? Or, maybe you would like to find just the right location to do some whale watching. There are many options including things like water skiing, rock climbing and beautiful scenery.

Once you find the right cruise for you, you can usually book them right on the web. You should note that there are plenty of options out there but many of the best cruises fill up long before they are to set sail. Look for ones that offer the things that you want but don't waste too much time.

Booking A Cruise For Less

There are several things that you can do to book your next cruise for less. This will include many of the things that make your day amazing. Of course, if you would like to not worry about the cost of your next cruise, there are more than a few things that will help you to enjoy your cruise without worrying about the expense of it all. Here are some tips that will help you with doing just that.

- Take your time to shop around. Not only are there plenty of cruises available, but many of them are out there offering discounted rates too. If you shop around, you may find one website offering the same cruise as another website for much less.
- Go in the off season. There is probably no single better way for you to save money than for you to book your cruise in the off season. Usually, you will still have a wide range of choices in cruise ships and you will still be able to go to most locations. The difference here is that you will be able to save quite a bit while doing it.
- Look for deals on getting to your port. You will likely need to fly to the port where your ship is leaving from. If that is the case, you should really consider looking for deals on airfare. There are plenty of these available to you as well. Take some time to compare your options so that you can find the airline that offers the best rates when you need to be there.

All of these things will help you to save money on your next cruise. Take some time right now to find the best rates available to you. If you plan to go on your cruise anytime soon, though, you may not want to wait too long because many cruises fill up rather quickly.

Booking Your Cruise Online

One way to save money on your next cruise is to use an online travel service. It used to be that the only way for you to find the right price for your travel experience was to work with a travel agent. Today, though, you can easily find the best cruise options for you right on the web rather than through a travel agent with their mark up added to it. The good news is that there are many options that you can consider here. There is not just one online service to use, but several. This is where you are likely to save yourself a good amount of money.

When you are using the online travel services to book your next cruise, make sure that you do one very important thing. That is that you should spend your time comparison shopping for the best rates that are available. You are likely to find many options to consider here. But, compare apples to apples. That means you should compare the same cruise and cruise line from one online travel service to the next. This is the ideal way for you to save money in the long run on your service. You are going to find that some offer a lower rate than others do.

One thing to note about these online travel services, though, is that not all of them offer the same cruises. Some will not offer others. And, this can make comparisons difficult. Yet, you should still be able to see the difference in prices that are available. Another benefit that many offer you is that you can find the right cruise for you in a package. These packages may include things like your transportation to the port, your meals, your expenses and many other perks. Depending on the online travel service and the cruise that you take, there may be a way for you to save money.

The Best Times To Take A Cruise

Booking a cruise is a really magical experience. You may feel that the amusement park vacations are just too boring. Or, you may be tired of exploring the same old cities and locations. Instead, why not take a cruise? There are plenty of things to do and to see on these cruises. Most of the time, you will be unlimited in where you want to go and the things that you would like to enjoy. But, one thing that you will need to decide about the cruise is the right time for you to go on it.

Let's face it, not everyone gets a choice as to when they can take their vacations. Many have to worry about school schedules and work ones as well. But, the more options that you have in the times that you can travel, the better your options are going to be. There are plenty of them too. But, to break it down, we'll put it quite simply as traveling in the off season, which is generally the winter months, or traveling in the travel season which includes summer and holidays from school.

Off Season Travel Versus In Season

There are many benefits to each of these choices. Really, it is up to you to decide which the right choice for our needs is. But, if you do have the options to consider, then look at what is available. First in the season of travel, you usually can find more people to travel with. You can get your group together and go as a family which can help you to get lower rates. You can also find a wide range of options in where to travel as most cruises run during this time period.

But, if you travel in the off season, you may be able to save quite a bit of money. Many cruise lines will offer outstanding packages for this time period. You usually do not need as much time to book these trips either. You can usually find the right location to go to within a small amount of time. And, there are fewer crowds as well. Of course, there may be a limit to the locations that you travel to due to winter weather, but you may find that some areas, like the tropics are more enjoyable in slightly cooler weather.

With all of that said, you need to carefully consider the options that you have. Finding the right deal and the right cruise are also important to you. Yet, with the world as your destination, you may be able to find just what you would like to have.

A Simple Plan

Knowing what type of information you'll need to have before you board and what to pack isn't an exact science. However, it does help to know in advance what to expect and how to plan your cruise.

Paper Work

Your ticket packet information will give you specific instructions, but most cruise lines will require at least a state issued picture I.D., even if your cruise will stay in U.S. territorial waters. If your ship is going to another country, you'll probably need to bring a passport or a birth certificate with a raised seal and a governmentally issued I.D. such as a driver's license.

Whether you need a passport or not depends on where you are going. Foreign travel often requires a passport. However, you may be able to enter some countries with just a notarized birth certificate with a raised seal and your driver's license. Although, some countries may not require much to enter, you'll still need proof of citizenship when you re-enter the United States. You'll need to find out if any of the foreign travel you are planning will require a passport or visa.

If you don't have a passport, apply for one at least 3 months before travel. If you already have a passport, make sure it will still be valid for your entire trip. If your passport will be within six months of expiration while you're traveling, you may want to get a new passport since some countries now require that your passport must be valid six months after your return to the U.S.

You can get a passport at a State Department Passport Agency, a clerk of any Federal or State Court of record, designated municipal or county official or a designated U.S. Post Office. They usually run around $100 for an adult, so be sure and figure this expense into your cruise budget.

To get your passport, you will, most likely, need to appear in person at the issuing facility. If you are a first time applicant, you'll need to appear in person at one of the official locations listed above. You will also need to appear in person if it has been more than 12 years since your last passport was issued or you were under 16 years of age when your last passport was issued. Applicants under 13 are not always required to appear in person since a parent or guardian may execute the application on the child's behalf.

Cruise Lines At Your Service

When you plan to get yourself and your family a cruise vacation, where you get quotes that you use in comparing different cruise packages available? Whom are the ones arranging your pre-departure tours?

Whom you deal with when you are already on-board, providing all of your needs and ensuring your safety for the rest of your vacation?

It is all about cruise lines.

What is a Cruise Line?

A company or corporation operates the cruise ships. Cruise lines are considered to carry two purposes. First is for transportation business, and second, in the leisure entertainment business.

Aside from the administration officers and headquartered employees, cruise line personnel extends on the cruise ship, which is headed by the ship's captain and his crew, and a hospitality staff, which is headed by the equivalent of a hotel manager.

Among the cruise lines presently operating, some of them are direct descendants of the traditional passenger shipping lines. Others were among the original cruising companies established in the early 1960's.

Having a cruising business before is just like placing your investment on a great risk. A slight dip in cruise bookings can cause the loss of your business, since you need to recover all the expenses you have incurred from building the cruise ship.

List of Popular Cruise Lines

Currently, there are 52 cruise lines operating in the United States, Europe, Asia, and other places. Most of these cruise lines have headquarters based at the United States, and the rest to different European countries.

How To Have An Unforgettable Cruise Vacation

The following are the list of some of the cruise lines

Birka Line

An Aldanian cruise line concentrates on cruising activities at the Baltic Sea with Stockholm as the starting point. It was founded in 1971 after the acquisition of the ship M/S Princessan which is turned later to Prinsessan. It made its first cruise between Stockholm and Mariehamn.

In 1972, the Birka Line bought the M/S Olav and renamed her Baronessan. The preceding years, they have acquired few more ships. They have also car and passenger ferries on the Stockholm-Helsinki route. One of the additions is the M/S Drottningen, which is a train ferry servicing the Stockholm-Helsinki/Leningrad route.

Carnival Cruise Lines

It is now one of the subsidiaries of the Carnival Corporation, which operates different cruise lines and has become the largest corporation in the cruise industry.

Carnival Cruise Lines were the pioneer of the cheaper and shorter cruise concept. They have been able to produce larger ships, one of which is the Carnival Destiny, which is 101,000 tons and became the largest passenger ship in the world.

Currently, the company announced in the first quarter of 2006 the latest two new ships to be incorporated in their fleet. These are the carnival Freedom, which sets its debut in 2007, and the Carnival Splendor, to be launched in the spring of 2008.

Crystal Cruise Lines

Most commonly known as Crystal Cruises, Crystal Cruise Lines debuted in 1988 with its three medium-sized, high-end ships. A large Japanese shipping company Nippon Yusen Kaisha Line owns it. Their ships are regularly placed in the list of Conde Nast Traveler magazine as one of the best cruise liners. Most guidebooks also score the three ships among the top 20 of all cruise ships presently running.

Disney Cruise Lines

As the name suggests, it is owned by the famous Walt Disney Company and headquartered in Celebration, Florida. It operates two cruise ships: the Disney Magic and the Disney Wonder, along with Castaway Cay, an island in the Bahamas designed as an exclusive port of call for Disney's ships.

The first ship, the Disney Magic, started its operation on July 30, 1998. The other one, the Disney Wonder, debuted in August 15, 1999. Each of the ship has 875 staterooms and a crew of 945.

It is relatively identical in their design, with some variations in restaurants and in entertainment sections. Both ships have areas designed for different group ages, which include toddlers, young children, teens, and adults.

Norwegian Cruise Lines

The company is based in Miami, Florida and founded as the Norwegian Caribbean Lines in 1966. It started offering cruises in the Caribbean at a low cost.

The acquisition of the cruise ship France in 1979 that is later rebuilt and named Norway, paved the way for the new era of giant cruise ships.

There are other cruise lines out there, offering different travel packages to make your cruise vacation an experience to remember.

To Insure Proper Service

Let the controversy begin. Tipping has become a hot topic among cruisers. Some cruise lines have pulled away from tipping, but they seem to have done so just enough to confuse the issue. Tipping is a traditional part of cruising and just like the restaurants you frequent at home, it is an important part of the income of those that will help you on your cruise.

The people that will be assisting you are in the service industry, and it is the passenger tips that will make up the largest percentage of their income. Some of these employees make as little as $25 a week, so they rely heavily on their tips and are willing to reward generous tipping with outstanding service.

Each cruise line will provide their own guide to tipping; in fact some even provide all the envelopes for you to pass them out in.

For some general guidelines to help you know who and how much to tip.

Airport skycaps generally are rewarded $1.00 for each bag if they carry them.

Porters at the loading area of the Cruise ship also look forward to $1.00 for each bag

Cabin Stewards and Waiters $3.00/3.50 each per passenger, per day

Servers or Busboys $1.50/2.50 per passenger, per day

Maitre d' $2.00 to 10.00 per passenger for the entire cruise depending on how helpful they have been.

Many bar and lounge tips are included on your bill at a standard 15% which you can generally adjust for poor or excellent service. Check your individual bills to see if a tip has already been included. You can expect to spend about $10-$15 a day in tips, so be sure to budget for that.

Often, cruise ships will automatically tack on tips to your on board account. It's a good idea to ask for this to be removed and then take care of tipping yourself. Experienced cruisers say they like to have control over who gets what based on the service provided, etc.

Cruising offers a lot of experiences you won't get anywhere else. Take advantage of them, but be mindful of what you spend. Unless you have a limitless amount of cash to spend, some general tips and tricks could help. Read on!

Getting Your Drink On

For those of you who enjoy a little nip here and there, drinking on board the ship can be an expensive proposition. Don't expect to get plowed on $20 like you might be able to do at home. Drinks are expensive, but you can save here as well.

In this section, we'll address both alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages. Both can be quite expensive on board, and many people report this is where they spend the bulk of their money, especially if you like your wine and beer.

Whether or not to BYOB (Bring Your Own Beverages) is a hot cruise passenger topic. Many cruise lines look the other way at soft drinks and bottled water toted by embarking passengers, but they are increasingly intolerant of allowing them to bring alcoholic beverages on board.

A bottle of wine or champagne for a special occasion is usually okay, but don't even think of carting on a case of beer. If you must BYOB to save money, stick to soft drinks.

DO NOT accept the umbrella drink of the day as you board. If you are a newbie, you think this is a nice gesture on the part of the cruise line. And then they ask for your stateroom number so they can post the $8-$9 charge.

Probably the best tip I've seen for getting your own liquor on board the ship is coming now. TAKE HEED - THIS IS A STELLAR SUGGESTION! Send yourself a cost-effective bon voyage gift of your favorite spirits to be delivered to your stateroom, either from the cruise line or an independent service. Since it's a gift, they probably won't restrict the possession of it in your cabin! There are many places online that will put these together for you at a reasonable cost.

Bar drinks and wine typically cost about what patrons would expect to pay at a nice lounge or restaurant in a resort or at home (depending on where you live). Keep in mind, unless you really want a souvenir glass to take home, order your umbrella drinks in regular glasses-you will pay extra for the keepsake glass.

Doing It On Your Own

Start with research. We're assuming you don't have a particular cruise line in mind, but if you do, start with their web site. If you don't care whether you cruise on Carnival or Ambassador, do a quick web search for cruise deals and you'll find tons of places that will give you information on what they have to offer. There are three web sites we have found that might help guide you:

cruise-addicts.com,
cruisestateroom.com,
cruisecritic.com

You will have a lot of options to consider when deciding on your cruise, which we will outline in this chapter.

One such option is taking a theme cruise. What exactly is a theme cruise, you ask? It is a cruise booked around a certain theme that could focus on a particular interest such as murder mystery, sports, music styles, etc. The cruise line may provide special events and lectures for you to attend revolving around the theme. Some theme cruises have celebrities along for the ride giving you the chance to rub elbows with the rich and famous. If you can think of a theme that interests people, they probably have a cruise to match it.

A theme cruise can be great fun if you pick the right theme for you. Check to see if a cruise line offers a theme cruise that matches your interest. You'll also want to see if the cruise you are going to book has a theme or possibly a large group joining your cruise. You might not want to spend your vacation being the odd man out because you don't like the theme or because you're not part of the large group.

You may want to check out a group cruise. This isn't necessarily you getting together a bunch of people and planning a cruise with them. There are some groups out there that have secured special, low rates for large groups of people. You don't even have to know the people you're cruising with.

How To Have An Unforgettable Cruise Vacation

You can find these group cruises in various places. Try looking at an Internet chat board for cruisers. They often have postings on there for groups who have secured such rates, and you can save a lot of money by booking with them instead of on your own.

Best Ways Of Planning Your Best Cruises

Most people fantasize about having a cruise vacation. It is not stressed enough that you should not only base on the price when choosing a cruise. Besides, you're going on a vacation to get maximum enjoyment and fun.

To make your cruise vacation a success, you must have a plan before deciding on a particular cruise. First of all, most cruises provide amenities and services such as meals, state rooms, airfare, day and night entertainment and other boarding packages.

Aside from that, a cruise must provide a stress free and relaxing vacation in the part of the cruise liner's clients. It should give you a pleasant experience. Remember, people consider spending their valuable vacation time in cruises because of the offers of maximum comfort, relaxation and entertainment.

To help you plan your cruise, here are some basic steps and important factors that you need to know to make cruises more enjoyable and get what you paid for.

- One of the most important things to consider is the destination of the cruises. Deciding on a particular destination can help a lot to ensure you maximum enjoyment. Cruise liners offer different location in their cruise package. Here are examples of the most popular destination people consider when they go to cruises: Alaska, Mexico Channel, Panama Island, and Caribbean Sea.
- Another important factor you should consider is who you are going to take with you. Cruise lines have different ships for different purposes. For example, there are ships that are family oriented where the whole family, kids and adults alike, can enjoy the cruise or there are also cruise ships that have a romantic theme where you and your significant other can enjoy romantic dinners, dances and other activities that both of you can do.
- Choose the best cruise lines. Remember that do not just choose a cruise vacation basing on your budget alone. Consider the best cruise lines that you can afford and you will surely get what you paid for. There are many cruise lines available for every type of people that will offer maximum fun and excitement.

- The vacationer must also decide how long the cruises will take. You don't want to exceed your vacation time where you should be at work instead of in an island worrying about what will happen after you arrive. Cruise lines offer different length of sailing schedules. There are offers of three to five days cruises, others will start at day number eight and can be extend up to a month or more. There are also available cruises that offer a four month trip around the world.
- You should also consider the number of activities inside a particular cruise ship. There should be basic amenities included in a cruise ship, like good accommodation with a bathroom. There should also be activities that offer the vacationer a variety of recreational activities. For example, rock climbing, ice skating, scuba diving, gambling facilities, swimming pools, gyms and spas. Activities in cruise lines vary from company to company. Choose the cruising lines that tailor your needs.
- You should also consider the ship of a particular cruise line company. Find out how old the ship is by looking at inauguration dates or asking the company about a particular ship. If it is possible, ask for a tour around the ship. Observe how the staff works and also consider if cleanliness is being practiced by the staff.
- Getting an early booking. Early booking means cheaper packages and less trouble getting a cruise. Most cruising lines companies offer a large amount of discounts when you book several months or more in advance ahead of the cruise schedule. To find out about a cruise schedule, visit a cruise liner's website. Cruise lines usually post their schedules on their websites and offer online booking. You can also visit your local travel agent specializing in cruise vacations and inquire about the cruise line schedule.
- If you want to experience shore excursions, always make a reservation to avoid frustration and disappointment. Shore excursions are a great way to visit other countries and learn about their culture. It is also where the best bargain shopping is available.

How To Have An Unforgettable Cruise Vacation

These are just some of the tips when planning a cruise. If you want to book a cruise, it is wise that you should hire a travel agent specializing in cruise vacations to get you the best deal possible.

Travel agents can also act as an advisor. Do not be afraid to ask about a particular cruise and what to expect from it.

How To Find Cruise Travel Deals On The Web

One of the best ways to save money on your next cruise is to look for deals that are available on the web. Like many of those out there, you would love to take a cruise to get away from it all. It is like one of the most sought after types of vacations but it can be one of the most expensive ones, right? It really does not have to be this way. In fact, many people are able to find a cruise for a really great deal. But, you need to know how to do this and where to look to find it. Then, you can enjoy a cruise without worrying about your pocket book the whole time.

A cruise is a destination and a journey. But, to get there, you need to find the right amount of options to consider. Here are some things that you can take your time looking and considering to find that perfect cruise for much less.

- Consider the time frame. If you have the ability to travel at any time, always consider the off season for the cruise. You may not realize it, but many cruise lines operate all year round. When you consider the time frame that is not the hurricane season and not a time period that is busy with tourists, such as the summer months and the holiday time frames, you can actually save quite a bit. Consider pulling the kids out of school for a week and going during these off times to save yourself quite a bit.
- Look for cruise packages. Some cruise lines will offer a package as an incentive to get passengers. These may include some of the fees removed from the trip or may offer you an additional length of time for much less. There are many package options to consider including those that offer free meals, free gifts and much more. Definitely consider these if they are to the locations that you want to travel to anyway.
- Look for ways to save on your airline tickets. If you need to fly to the port that the cruise is leaving from, consider your options for lowering prices this way. The web is the ideal location to do this because you can compare various airlines within seconds and you can book your tickets within a minute. You should consider tickets for the middle of the night, the middle of the week and multiple stops to save.

The web is full of some of the most amazing deals on cruises. Get out there and use the services that are set up. You are sure to find more than one option in a cruise that is ideal for you.

Your Cruise: Do You Use A Travel Agent Or The Web?

For any of your travel needs, you may face the problem of knowing whether to use a travel agent for your cruise or if you should book the trip yourself online. This is something that you will ultimately need to decide on yourself, but if you would like to compare your options, read on. There are many advantages to both sides of this coin. In all actuality, it depends on what is more important to you. What is true is that the cruises that are offered by your agent are the same cruises that are available through the online services on the web.

Using The Travel Agent

If you do use a travel agent to book your next cruise, you will have some benefits. Sometimes, they are able to get you into a cruise that is booked. Some agents, especially the larger ones, will have their own amount of rooms to sell. That means that the online agents may run out but some of the travel agents still may have some available. This little bit of leg work in calling them may be tiring but it also may be well worth it. Also, the travel agent offers that personal touch that the online agencies do not. You can ask questions at both, but you can do it in person with your travel agent and have immediate results.

Using the Online Travel Services

There are plenty of online travel services available to you on the web to use. These services will provide you with the best rates that are possible. Because there are several of them, you can easily go from one to the next to find the best rates that are available. You can even compare the various cruises that are available to find the very best option for you. Again, the largest benefit of using these services is that you can usually get a better rate for the packages and cruises that you would like to have. But, you do not have to use them at all. In fact, you can get a good idea of the price of every aspect of your cruise and then go somewhere else to see who has the best rates.

The ultimate decision is up to you. You are going to find a wide range of options no matter what you do, but the best way to find the ones that are right for you is to take the time to look at several. Comparison shop the cruise and the rates to find out what best fit for your budget and your dreams for your cruise.

A Word About Travel Agents

If you decide to use a travel agent, know whom you are dealing with! Some cruise agents are very competent; others may have been selling stereos or aluminum siding over the telephone six months ago. The problem is, for the most part, you will have no real way of discerning which is which.

Local travel agents or otherwise self-appointed cruise experts frequently read the cruise ship line PR veneer right out of the catalog. Often this turns out to be nothing more than selling you the standard discount for booking that is available to virtually anyone off the so-called brochure rate.

The result is that you think you're getting one of Kathie Lee's fantasy cruises. What you find yourself on is a garish neon nightmare of a ship filled with people whose idea of a good time is drinking, partying, and then waking you up at 3AM as they boisterously announce their arrival back to their room--all right outside of your cabin.

For sure, this is the idea of a roaring good time for some--but the point is KNOW WHAT YOU ARE REALLY BUYING! There are many significant points and nuances that can differentiate between an OK trip, and one that falls short for the money you spend.

Many travel or cruise agencies often offer "special discounts". This is a common travel agency ploy to offer promotional deals that frequently focus on a special "cruise night." You may get a mailing or perhaps there is an ad in the local newspaper. You go in, are met and greeted, enjoy punch and free cookies, and view a dreamy cruise video.

Keep in mind that this is intended to appeal to a strong emotional purchase decision. Experts about the Psychology of selling relate this experience to what any top car salesperson knows. In the dealer's showroom, if you can get the potential customer behind the wheel to experience the "smell of the new car" and the fantasy of pulling it into the driveway--you've likely already made a sale!

Mediterranean Cruises: Soak In The Sun

To experience the 'brilliance of the seas' the Mediterranean is an excellent option as far as cruising is concerned. Because of the growing demand to travel across the Mediterranean among the people, a lot of new cruises and packages are being introduced. These are available in all kinds of specifications and rates. Most of them generally offer a good bargain as per your requirements. Apart from the ordinary cruising facilities many of these ships have on board them spas and fitness centers, movie theatres and other recreation areas.

Cruises that are a part of Seabourn and Silver Seas are luxurious where one can just sit back and pamper oneself to the fullest. Taking anything between 6-19 days the Mediterranean cruise is indeed a great way to get away from the hustle and bustle of daily activities and cares. Most of these cruises take place between the months of May and October which is indeed the ideal time to travel across the Mediterranean Sea.

Disney is another cruising company whose unique feature is to create an ambience that is warm and closest to the likeness of a family. They replicate this ideal in all the facilities they offer. Moreover, Disney takes care to route the cruise via historically rich cities such as Naples, Rome, Florence, Pisa, Marseilles, Monte Carlo, and Cannes for an overall fulfilling experience. This cruise starts off from the Port of Barcelona on the eastern coast of Spain touring about ten to twelve games.

Cruises across the Mediterranean have a number of attractions to boast of. No matter what one's interest area is, one can not possibly find himself out of place on such a cruise. Whether you are interested in art and architecture, or history and ruins, or entertainment and recreations, you will find it all on board one of these cruises. If nothing, a mere glance at the list of the places and spots that these cruises visit as their destinations will be enough to convince you that there is something surely for you on that cruise. Mount Aetna, Monte Carlo, Chateau d'If, Pompeii, Pisa, etc are only some such attractions.

Cruises are not fun if you do not have some 'beach time' on your itinerary. For one such satisfactory experience you must not miss Olbia in Sardinia and Cefalu Beach in Palermo which are famous for their pristine beauty and calm water. Moreover, they are unpopulated and therefore ideal to spend some quiet time.

Mediterranean Cruises: Finding The Deals

Cruises across the Mediterranean are fast becoming popular ways to get away from the hectic everyday lives of several individuals and families. Because of this increasing demand companies are coming up with new and interesting cruising packages which ensure you a fun filled experience of cruising across the Mediterranean.

However, one needs to find out how to get good bargains so that you do not end up spending much more than you wanted to. If your travel plans are flexible it is advisable to avoid the peak season, which in cruising happens to be from June to Mid August. These summer months are crowded because of holidays that kids get from schools. Therefore, off-peak seasons such as May and any time after the second half of August is a good time.

Apart from avoiding the rush and getting the much wanted peace of mind another advantage to cruise in the off season is that you get good bargains as pricing is lower in the off season. This is primarily because in the off season very few people travel so the business of the cruising companies is as it is on the lower side. They need to attract passengers in this season. Therefore they generally lower their prices so that people who have relatively flexible travel plans or do not have to worry about their kids having to go back to school can avail of these offers.

But since the Mediterranean cruise is so popular this season you will have to look really hard for a good and satisfactory bargain in addition to keeping your travel plans flexible. Another requirement is the passport. Do not apply to any of these cruises unless you have your passport in hand. Passport generally takes six weeks to come after your application for it, but you can never count on it. You do not want to book a cruise and then end up wasting money and losing enthusiasm just because your passport has not arrived.

The thumb rule for getting a good bargain is to be as flexible as possible. Consider several cruise lines. You can always take your pick later. In your expenses don't forget to count airfare out. You can collaborate with the shipping company to get your air booking at comparable prices. They will ensure you get the right flight and reach on time because their aim is to get you on board the ship.

Interestingly, many of the world historical cities as well as cities rich in the sights and sounds are dotted around this inland sea. Going around and across the Mediterranean can, therefore, is an experience paced with excitement and fun.

First let us look at the four cities on the west coast of Italy namely Florence, Pisa, Naples and Costa Smeralda. Apart from that are the eastern Spanish Barcelona and the southern French Marseilles, equally rich in culture and heritage. The best part is that you can go through these cities on foot, on bicycle, a car, a bus, basically, almost on anything!

Florence: this city proves to be one of the most awaited destinations well known for its cathedrals and canals. The bridge across the Arno River is another attraction especially made so due to an array of shops and stalls that dots it. The Fountain of Neptune in the Piazza della Signoria is another site to look out for.

The Leaning Tower of Pisa: this is one monument that has managed to be popular in spite of the glitch in its foundation because of which it leans towards one side. With a height of 57 meters and weighing 14,500 tons, many a traveler has paid to visit this site ever since its construction in 1173 in spite of its lopsided stature.

Naples: this is another city famous for its chapels and castles. Once a site of flourishing art and literature, Naples is not famous for its monuments, The San Francesco di Paola church, situated in the middle of Piazza Plebiscito and Castel Nuovo to name a few.

Costa Smeralda: this long coast sees a true conflation of two cultures, the European and the Arabic. It is a common site for influential VIPs from both sides to meet for political, business and entertainment purposes. This coast is 55 km long developed by Prince Karim Aga Khan along the Mediterranean.

Barcelona: this city on the eastern coast of Spain is most famous for the football club named after it. Apart from that this city promises to be one which is always buzzing with activity in its cafes and shops. The pedestrian mall is lined with trees which make the tourist transport himself to another world all together.

Marseilles: the belfry of the Notre-Dame de la Garde basilica hosts the statue of the Virgin and the Child. This church is interesting in that it is built on the highest point in the city, being both an important tourist as well as pilgrimage destination.

Mediterranean Cruises: Making The Most Out Of Your Cruise

Mediterranean cruise trips are gradually becoming quite renowned among tourists. The principle reason is that this kind of a trip gives the tourist the opportunity to travel to many nations and observe varied traditions within a small period. Also there is no need to shift from one space to another or even carry your luggage as you would if you were traveling by land. All you need to do in a cruise trip is to be at ease and rest as the onboard staff provides you with all the plush and comfort. You get to meet different kinds of people, traditions as well as dialects. Carrying out expeditions to the different islands, checking out the seaports, visiting the wonderful churches, strolling down the museums or even getting to the famous tourist locations are few of the things that the tourists can indulge in.

From May to October is the best time to go for Mediterranean cruise trips. However, the cruise trips are available all through the year due to the lovely weather of that region. Well it is not advisable to visit places during the peak time as there is a huge rush and prices are higher too. It is better to go for trips during the off hour as then the tourist can check out the chief locations without having to tolerate a stampede. Balearic Islands lie on the eastern section of the Spanish coastline. The islands of Majorca, Minorca, Ibiza and Formentera are also located in that region. You can visit the taverns, beaches as well as the high rises overlooking the inlets of water in case your cruise liner drops anchor at the Balearic Islands.

The Port of Mahon, the capital as well the seaport of Minorca is a spot where the ships usually halt. A harbor formed geologically, it has long exquisite beaches. Huge yachts, stone structures, grooves, beautiful and calm motels as well as wonderful towns lie by this seaport. The very presence of English culture in this region reveals a great deal about the influences of the British regime in Minorca as well the history of the British settlers. If you ponder for a while, you will realize that in all likelihood, the very notion of sailing through the beautiful cities of Barcelona, Cairo, Paris, Rome, Athens and Venice attracts you. Well, most people would feel delighted to go to all these cities in just one vacation! This sort of a cruise trip attracts all kinds of tourists- couples with varying choices, families as well as those who cannot afford to go on long vacations.

Your cruise liner will halt at different locations and each one will give you the chance to breath in a new tradition and a new history of the place and the people. The Balearic Islands are especially exotic as they have not yet been touched upon by the technological advancements and the reconstruction that the rest of the world has undergone. Majorca and Minorca are islands that are extremely calm, quiet and serene. The local inhabitants are all so relaxed and you will be at peace among them. The British have started taking a fancy for the Mediterranean cruise trips. They opt for the 7-14 days cruise travel type and this trip is preferred to visiting any other travel destination. The British have contributed much to the tradition and history of the Balearic Islands. The British generally love visiting the Mediterranean region as it is quiet close to their homeland. But the Mediterranean is not a favorite just among them. Cruise trips that visit France, Italy, Greece, Egypt as well as the Mediterranean islands are gradually becoming famous among tourists in different parts of the world.

I've personally seen so many of my friends who either skip their meals or hurriedly gobble up something before they start off to work. These people doesn't seem to understand a simple but very important message that this kind of lifestyle is finally going to take them to hospital beds or to graveyard. To do work, it is essential that one is mentally and physically healthy. Healthy body and mind can only think of innovative and useful suggestions.

Take a break....feel relaxed and then start with your work again. Try to take a break at least once in a year. This will make you feel rejuvenated and you can start your work afresh.

Major disadvantage of choosing a large cruise is you tend to get lost in the crowd and can be deprived of the happiness of getting a better look at the water, glaciers, wild life and much more.

Choose a package that is inline with your requirements as well as exciting. Few Alaska cruises also offer helicopter trips. How about landing on glaciers? Walk leisurely on the glaciers and enjoy life to the maximum.

How To Have An Unforgettable Cruise Vacation

If you want to enjoy the hot sun, beautiful resorts and the limited rum punch, a Caribbean Single Cruise will be a great option for you. But, if you opt to being a hopeless romantic, and want to taste a glass of red wine, with the full moon beckoning you, then a European Single Cruise will be better for you. Whatever it is that you want, there will always be a Single cruise that will suit you best.

All you just have to do is make some research about the cruise line that provides the best single special and that will definitely suit your taste and preferences.

Here are extensive tips that can help you decide which to choose:

1. Travelers who are alone will be charged of a single rate. This is because most cabins are designed for double occupancy, so what most cruises do is just to add for an extra charge to one person in a room. Obviously, you are not paying for a 150 - 200% additional charge, but expect it to be a bit of a pricy.
2. There are cruises that give up the additional fee during promos but will give you a room with another person. If you do not like your privacy to be invaded or if you do not want to share a room with someone, it will be good if you choose to have an additional price to have a single room only for you.

However, if you are a person that finds it more interesting to be with someone in a room, then you can always grab the promo.

3. Try to look at the broadsheet or in the internet to know if there are still available single cruises in which you could join. There are instances that a cruise is pre-booked by a Singles Organization that allows only their members to join the cruise. However, most of these organizations are also allowing non-member singles to join with them, but with a pricier tag than those who are members of the organization.

Though you will be able to join such groups, you will still be traveling as a single. The good thing about joining them is that you would be able to meet other single persons. You do not have to be doubtful when joining such group, since they are just like you – single cruisers, who are in deep search for companionship and love.

Common Myths About Cruises

A lot of people who have never set foot on a cruise ship think that they know a lot about cruises. The truth is if you have never been on a cruise then probably the only thing you know about them is what you have seen on movies. If this is true for you, then you have quite a few misconceptions about what a cruise really is and what is available.

One of the more popular misconceptions about cruises is that the only people who take a cruise are the elderly and retired. This is simply not true. You will find older adults on almost any cruise that you may take, but you'll also find that they do not make up the majority of the vacationers. Of course if you happen to be on a cruise which is sponsored for retirees, then you will definitely see a lot of gray.

A lot of families have added cruises as one of their vacation getaways. Cruises are a great way to expose children to different cultures as well as allowing them to see different parts of the world at an early age. Cruises as a family trip are growing more popular and are spawning more children friendly activities as well as facilities targeted to children.

Another myth about cruises is that they are set upon a very rigid schedule for dining entertainment and recreation. At one time this was true however it is not the fact at all today. Although you will find meals served at what is considered the proper times you will also find but they meals which are available in between regular mealtimes. How To Save Money On Your Cruise

You would like to go on a cruise this year for your vacation. But, just looking at some of the costs that are out there is a sure enough way to worry that you may not be able to afford to do that. Yet, there are many ways that you can save money on the cruise that you plan to purchase. If you are like many of the people out there, you should carefully consider your options. First of all, you should do a little research before you commit to one cruise or the other. There is much to be learned before you do that.

Cruises can be affordable if you know what and when to do it. Depending on where you would like to go, what you would like to see, and what you would like to do, your options may be a little limited. So, what you should do to save money is to be as open as possible about the cruise. If you are able to go at any time of the year, it is best to go in the off season. You can often find the best deals on packages during the winter months. But, the good news is that it doesn't have to be winter where you are headed. If you live in the north, a winter cruise to the tropical is ideal and it feels like summer there!

Another way to save on your cruise is to comparison shop. Not all of the various options that are out there to be booked are offered for the same price. You may find that the same cruise will cost less on one website than it will cost on another. This is heartbreaking if you choose the wrong one. Take a few minutes to compare your prices.

Also, consider how you will get to your cruise. A sure way to drive up the cost of a cruise is to need to take a flight to get to the cruise in the first place. You may want to consider driving. Or, if you can, consider boarding your cruise ship as close to home as possible. By cutting off a few miles this way, you may be able to actually save quite a bit in airline fees.

There is no reason why you can not save money on the cruises that you plan to take. In fact, if you are one that can pick up and go, some cruises will actually offer very good rates in the off season when they do not have a lot of guests. This is ideally the best time to go!
